1. Information/Instructions

Please complete one registration for each ELA teacher. Registrants will receive additional information closer to their session date.

"Re-Conceptualizing English Language Arts Instruction with CTL's Adolescent Literacy Model"

CTL is pleased to offer to middle and high school English Language Arts teachers an opportunity to re-conceptualize the language arts program in their school and build a responsive system for reading and writing improvement.

Four, five-day seminars are planned in four regions of Kentucky. Seminars will provide an intense, focused experience with CTL adolescent literacy experts. Seminar participants will:

- Engage in study and discussion about current trends in ELA instruction in middle and high schools
- Learn new strategies to support student engagement and active learning
- Build a supported structure for classroom management in a high quality instructional environment
- Collaborate with colleagues to plan for upcoming reading and writing instruction
- Receive tools and professional resources to apply immediately in your own classroom practice

Seminars Will Provide:

- An active and collaborative learning environment
- All materials, resources, strategies included
- Opportunities to continue to expand your practice after the seminar via CTL's virtual learning network
- CTL Certificate of Achievement
- Catered breakfast and lunch each day

Dates and Locations:

- July 12 – 16, 2010 Louisville, at CTL (see address below)
- July 19 – 23, 2010 Hazard (location TBD)
